

Assistant Veterinarian

Reporting to the Fish Health Manager, the Assistant Veterinarian will provide support in the management of fish health, welfare and biosecurity across the company's aquaculture's hatchery and marine farm sites.

Responsibilities

As Assistant Veterinarian you will support the implementation and continuous improvement of the Veterinary Health Plan. With a hands-on approach, the Assistant Veterinarian will also be responsible for disease diagnosis and general fish health, welfare and biosecurity, including field investigations and post mortem analysis and reporting.

As the Assistant Veterinarian you will also be required to travel to our other farm and hatchery sites across the state.

Qualifications & Experience

It is an inherent requirement of this position that work be performed safely whilst upholding the company's values. You will be a highly motivated person eager to learn and uphold the company's commitment to innovation and best practice. The appointed person must be able to build and maintain strong working relationships with key stakeholders. Knowledge of work health and safety regulations is preferred.

Successful applicants will hold a tertiary qualification in Veterinary Science and a current driver's licence. Knowledge of the aquaculture industry, and an understanding of the current issues facing fish farming in the region would be highly regarded.

A valid Coxswains or diving certificates and/or experience in a similar area is desirable but not essential.

Recent university graduates, with enthusiasm for a career in salmonid production are encouraged to apply.

Apply Online

Use the online application form to submit your application.

Role description

The role description gives an overview or what the job involves and how it fits within an organisation. It will often highlight the skills or experience needed to do the job.

General duties and goals of the position

The details in the role overview and duties provide the context you need to customise your cover letter, resume, and selection criteria responses.

Make a note of any keywords that could be used in your selection criteria responses, particularly keywords associated with specific techniques or equipment.

You should get a sense of how well you fit the role with your existing education and work experience and judge whether you're a suitable candidate for the role.

Selection criteria

There are several selection criteria (some mandatory) included under the "Qualifications & Experience" heading. Your application should address the points included in this section.

Instructions

Ensure you follow the instructions outlined on each job advert. Don't assume that each job advert will have the same requirements.

In this instance, an online application form allows you to attach a resume and a cover letter. There is no requirement to respond separately to the selection criteria, therefore you should address the few selection criteria as part of your one to two page cover letter.
